Are you prepared to study abroad?

Studying abroad can make the difference between an unforgettable semester, Independent Study or J-term, and a run-of-the-mill experience. Here are 3 things you need to know about studying abroad:

1. You have SO MANY OPTIONS when it comes to picking the right program.

There are programs available for every academic interest, of every length of time, in nearly every country in the world. The challenge is picking the right program for you.

Luckily, GSC makes it easy for you. Our highly-recommended 15-credit semester program in Cambodia is 15 weeks of academics, hands-on service-learning and some sightseeing in beautiful Southeast Asia. For non-traditional students, GSC also offers Independent Studies programs and J-term opportunities.

2. Preparation is essential.

From passports to travel insurance to flight itineraries, the prep work for an international trip has to be done long before you reach the airport. GSC helps you cover all of your bases well before you leave for Cambodia so that you can travel with confidence.

When you arrive, we'll meet you at the airport with a sign that has your name on it, and your program rolls on just as smoothly from there. It kicks off with a week of orientation, including basic language lessons, sightseeing, program-specific training and cultural preparation.

3. You'll actually have to study.

Fortunately, GSC's service-learning model makes sure that your academic education is not only about the classroom, but also about practicing what you learn in the field. You'll spend 12 weeks volunteering with our local nonprofit partners, working side-by-side with professionals to address real community needs.

As a student, your internships may include the following: public health work serving slum communities, leadership and life skills training to upcoming youth leaders, teaching basic English lessons to monks, youth and/or adults, providing psycho-social support to orphans affected by HIV/AIDS and/or a peaceful week of Buddhist immersion at a local monastery.

GSC's 15-credit Spring Semester study abroad program in Cambodia runs for 15 weeks, from January 4, 2016 – April 18, 2016. Credit is available through the University at Albany, SUNY or can be arranged through your own institution. For pricing and more information, check out our Students page.

For non-students, GSC offers programs in Global Public Health, Buddhist Immersion, Teaching English, Children and Orphanage Care and Community Development and Leadership Training, with start dates every month. You choose how long you want to stay and which program is right for you.

We hope to have you join us for a fascinating cultural learning experience while serving people in need in Cambodia, the "Kingdom of Wonder"!
